AUSTIN — Today, Texas Land Commissioner George P. Bush announced the fourth and seventh grade winners of the 2018 Save Texas History Essay Contest, sponsored by the Texas General Land Office's Save Texas History Program. The essay contest encourages students to answer the question, "What history in your community is worth saving?"

"As a former history teacher, I am proud to announce the recipients of the 2018 annual Save Texas History Essay Contest: fourth grader, Laila Prest and seventh grader Cooper Caswell," said Commissioner Bush. "It is especially rewarding to see students learn more about our state's rich history through their participation in the Save Texas History Essay Contest. Thank you to all the young Texans who submitted their essays as well as the parents and teachers who encouraged their participation. The submissions were impressive and full of inspiring examples of how future generations of Texans can appreciate the rich history in their local communities and around the state. Congratulations to our winners and to all those who participated."

The fourth- grade grand prize winner is Laila Prest, daughter of Amie Prest. Laila is a homeschooler in Menard. Her essay was titled "Menard, Texas: Honoring the Past, Looking to the Future", and it discussed the importance of saving the overall history and culture of her community. Laila said, "We can save buildings, monuments, and historical sites, but saving a culture is a more difficult thing to do. When I look at paintings and photographs of my ancestors, I see seven generations of dedicated people working tirelessly to build a future for their families and community."

The seventh grade grand prize winner is Cooper Caswell, son of J.J. and Laura Caswell. Cooper is in Ms. Anna Fonville's class at Ira School in Ira, Texas. Cooper's essay was titled Heritage Village of Scurry County, and it discussed how "the village shows the rich history of development in our area through farming, ranching, transportation, oil field, and wind mills." Additionally, Cooper said, "If I win this contest the money would go forward to helping pay for these repairs." Each grand prize winner will receive a cash award of $500 courtesy of Chris Cantu of Edward Jones Investments and Bob Eskridge of Just in Time Staffing. The five finalists in each grade will receive $100 courtesy of the Rotary Club of Austin and the Sons of the Republic of Texas. All winners and finalists will receive a Texas flag that has flown over the northernmost point of the Republic of Texas (in present-day Wyoming) along with a certificate of authenticity; as well as Save Texas History backpacks and a reproduction of an historic map from the GLO Archives map collection, and a Certificate of Achievement signed by Commissioner Bush. The names of all finalists appear on the Save Texas History website at www.savetexashistory.org.
